

Men and Women Who Made Up Retinue of Ak-Sar-Ben XIX and Consort

ELIZABETH FAVORED NAME

Royal Title Predominates in Names of Consorts.

THREE ARE GIVEN THIS NAME

Elizabeth Davis First to Ascend Throne Followed by Elizabeth Pickens and Then by Elizabeth Congdon.

Ethics demands that the poet, the author and the playwright select a different name for every heroine and for every character, but for the board of governors of the Ak-Sar-Ben, ethics either has nothing to do with the selection of a queen or the ethics is contrary to the ethics that command the poet, the author and the playwright. For the board of governors has selected three successive queens that rejoice in the Christian name of Elizabeth.

No one unless it be the governors themselves is aware why the propensity to choose an Elizabeth, but no one offers any complaint, for the choice of all three Elizabeths has been judicious to the last degree, both for beauty of face and figure and for popularity among her subjects. Of course Elizabeth is a beautiful name, but it is hard to overlook the coincidence of the last three queens being entitled Elizabeths.

The many subjects of the queen demand that she be a kind and generous but nevertheless firm ruler, and every Elizabeth has lived up to expectations, and the new Elizabeth gave every indication at the coronation last night of following the footsteps of her predecessors.

The first queen, who was named Elizabeth, and who earned distinction, was Elizabeth of England. Elizabeth of England was a distinguished queen and her name is written firmly in the annals of history, but in the history of Quivers Elizabeth of England occupies an insignificant position as compared to the more recent Elizabeths. And she should, for the Elizabeths of Ak-Sar-Ben have been better rulers and we doubt very seriously if Elizabeth of England could occupy the dignified throne of the queen of Quivers with the success of our own Elizabeth.

Elizabeth Davis was the first Elizabeth to ascend the throne. Elizabeth Pickens followed and the queen who was crowned last night, was Elizabeth Congdon. Long live Elizabeth and may more Elizabeths succeed her at subsequent coronations.
